W. Marks Sells Out Interest in The aters to Rice and Tupper

CHANGE IN IRIS COMPANY

G. W. Marks has sold his interest in the Iris theater company to his former partners, Messrs, J. B. Rice and W. T. Tupper, and will leave Sunday morning for an extended eastern trip, on which he will visit his former eastern home Boston. Mr. Marks has been resident manager of the Iris theater in Globe since it was started and it was due largely to his efforts that the house has attained its present popularity. Ed-ward R. Keith, who has been singing the illustrated songs, will succeed Mr. Marks as resident manager and General Manager Tupper has secured the services of a high priced eastern tenor singer to take Mr. Keith's place. The Iris has also a new pinnist, F. J. Reinboth, an accomplished musician who has had many years theatrical experience.

The Iris Theater company has now theaters in Bisbee, Globe, Cananea, El Paso, Nogales, Tucson and Morenci and newest ones. The company has in its comparatively brief existence demonstrated its ability to deliver the goods and their shows have invariably been all as advertised.

J. WATT HOGUE JAMES W. HOGUE

When Napoleon, that wizard in the arts of war, stood captive on the banks of St. Helena's Isle and looked down upon the turbulent waters of the rearing sea, he heard the waves whispering a dirge of defeat to his ambitions, his mighty martial spirit broke, and the lust of battle and blood left him forever. When Beishazzar saw the writing on the wall, a flood of accusing memories of his Bacchanalian past swept away the grandeur of his kinghood, his mighty pride met, as did Napoleon, a Waterloo. But when Old Nature kissed the hills, valleys and mountains of Arizona with sunshine, and sprinkled this country with wealth, she did it with a lavish hand and for a time beyond man's conception.
